THE ISLES OF GREECE.

A Country that has been much Written about—Famous in Art and Science.

An Unprepossessing People—System in Force for Punishing Criminals.

Written for the VICTORIA TIMES, by CAPT. SIBBALD, R. N.

(CONCLUDED.)

Strolling through some underwood I came suddenly to the edge of a hollow spot, where were gathered as wild and as picturesque looking a crew as can well be imagined. A large fire blazed in the middle, and before it a stick (supported by the crutches of two others) spitted a dozen red legged partridges, and watching the process of roasting, were seated cross-legged, on the ground several Albanians, who with their silver mounted pistols, atighans, and cartouche boxes formed a group which would have been appreciated by an artist, but one on which I had no wish to intrude; and in fact, I would have passed them by, had not my dog commenced barking, which attracted their attention, and also caused them to seize their muskets. I took the only safe course, and walked into their midst, where I seated myself, not without grave misgivings as to what next would happen. As was natural with people of their calling, my gun (a valuable Westley and Richards) attracted their attention, and I was asked to pass it round, which I did, feeling certain that I should never see it again, but in this I was mistaken. After trying the locks and admiring the click caused by the spring in cocking and uncocking, they returned it. My watch was also admired, probably coveted, but not detained; all they asked for was some powder which I willingly gave them, together with the flask which contained it. I wonder if it burst any of their guns, a consummation not unlikely to happen. I remember giving a charge to a native of Leo, telling him at the same time that he had better not use the whole of it, as his long barrel looked unreliable about the breech; my advice was thrown away, the Zeote did not say "teach your grandmother to suck eggs," but laughed at the idea. He returned to me in the evening with two of his fingers badly hurt, and the sufferer was brought to think lightly of the matter, when, by working on my sympathetic nature, he had induced me to salve his wounds with the donation of a few piastres. Considering that I ate a whole partridge, took my share of a skin of (not very poor) wine, and smoked some pipes, I think I had no reason to complain, when I bid them "cala si spse," I don't know if I spell the expression rightly, but it means "good evening." I cannot say that there was any desire on my part, nor did it appear probable that I should fall in with any of the party again; but the most unlikely things do happen. Some time afterwards the ship I belonged to captured some pirates, and among them was one of my entertainers. He had been wounded, and was altogether in a sad plight. During the time he was a prisoner on board I was able to show him some little kindness. From a conversation I had with him I was led to conclude that there were cogent reasons for not molesting me; the first being that they were then dodging the authorities, and they were aware that my ship was anchored at no great distance, so that if I had been meddled with stringent measures would have been adopted to effect their capture. I remembered having noticed a whispered consultation when I first appeared among them. I have before mentioned that I have had no reason to complain of ill-treatment whilst wandering in Greece. As a nation they certainly deserved our sympathy, when we consider the courage and endurance they displayed when struggling against such tremendous odds. The petty jealousies of the captain caused many disasters, but this is what has happened during all struggles for the same end, and in her fight for existence there were men of fame among her sons whose deeds deserve to be chronicled with those of her ancient heroes. By sea the lightly equipped vessels under Tombosi and Oblers often put to flight the line of battle ships of the Turks. At Scio, Conesi sailed into the midst of the Turkish fleet and laid his vessel alongside a huge Turkish ship, which was quickly in flames; that monster that had lately superintended the massacre of forty thousand souls on the island, perished with his crew. The rich spoils of Scio were in the ship. The stand of five hundred youths (who at the commencement of the insurrection, when surrounded by an overwhelming force refused to surrender and lost 400 of their number) might well be classed with the deeds of their ancestors at Thermopylæ, Salamis, or Marathon, or with the ride of the gallant Six Hundred into the valley of death at Balaklava. Did not Marco Bozzaris lead a forlorn hope of four hundred volunteers, making a night attack on the Turkish camp of fifteen thousand men, the leader of the onslaught falling pierced by bullets in the moment of victory:

They fought like brave men long and well,
They piled that ground with moslem slain,
They conquered but Bozzaris fell
His smile when rang their proud hurrah,
And the red field was won.

They saw in death his eye lids close,
Calmly as to a night's repose
Like flowers at set of sun;
Bozzaris, she who gave thee birth
Will by the pilgrim's exiled hearth,
Talk of thy doom without a sigh,
For thou art Freedom's now and Fame's,
One of the few, the immortal names
That were not born to die.

If anything could have rendered Greece more interesting it would be Byron's poetry, and though he has been rather hard on the present generation, his efforts in their cause have been remembered with gratitude. An amusing incident illustrating this feeling came to my notice many years since. It happened to be my watch on deck in a frigate carrying Mons. T——e (who had been Greek ambassador in England) to Athens. He pronounced the funeral oration over Byron at Missolonghi. His Excellency came to me and asked me in his broken English, if I had got a copy of Byron, as he loved him very much. I procured him the book and by a sad contretemps it opened at the lines, which he commenced to read aloud with much emphasis and many gesticulations:

Approach thou crouching craven slave.
Say! is not this Thermopylæ?
The waters blue that round you lave,
Oh servile offspring of the free
Pronounce what sea, what shore is this?
The Gulf, the rock of Salamis!

His Excellency read no more aloud, but good-naturedly observed; "Le Biron very hard on us sometimes, but he loved us all de same. He gave his compatriots some hard knock in de English Bards and Scotch Reviewers, and what friends he was with some of dem afterwards."

PURITAN-GENESTA

Yacht Race—The Second Contest—A Splendid Start Made Yesterday.

The Puritan Crosses the Line Six Minutes ahead of the Genesta.

Special to THE TIMES.

NEW YORK, 9:30 a. m., Sept. 14.—The prospects are that the Puritan and Genesta will be able to have to-day their initial race for the American cup over inside of New York Yacht Club's course. Signal office at Sandyhook reports at this hour a 13-knot breeze from the south-west, with the probability of continuance throughout the day.

10 a. m.—The Genesta and Puritan have just left their anchorage under sail and are proceeding to the starting point off Owl's Head.

10:25 a. m.—The Genesta and Puritan have begun the race. They crossed the line at 10:24 a. m. The boats started on port tack; the Puritan securing an advantage of half a length. After ten minutes' run in Long Island shore, both boats almost simultaneously tacked about for the Narrows, with the Puritan slightly ahead.

FORT HAMILTON, 1:40 a. m., Sept. 14.—Both yachts are becalmed off buoy No. 13; wind setting in from southeast and light. At Sandy Hook, however, the wind is blowing a 12-knot breeze.

The sea off Sandy Hook was smooth this morning. The wind, which at dawn was blowing fresh from the southwest is now a 10-mile breeze. The bay is dotted with yachts and vessels of all sorts and sizes. The air is so clear that glasses are hardly necessary to distinguish the racers. It was just 11:07 when the Puritan and Genesta passed Fort Wadsworth: the Puritan looked to be at least half a mile ahead of the Genesta.

NEW YORK, 10:10 a.m.—The Puritan is now going through the Narrows leading the Genesta by half a mile. The shores of Long Island and Staten Island are crowded with people, and boats of every description follow in the wake of the contesting yachts.

PORT HAMILTON, NEW YORK, Sept. 14.—Noon.—The yachts are heading south on port tack; wind is southwest and only three miles an hour. The Puritan leads the Genesta about a quarter of a mile. The fleet behind the racers extends from shore to shore, and incoming ships had to lay in outside the Narrows until the racers and the attendant fleet had passed seaward. The Club top-sails of the Puritan are not more than half filled. Genesta's sails seem to catch more of a favoring breeze, but the Puritan keeps ahead.

At 12:07, the Puritan, on part tack, led the Genesta by nearly a mile. The Genesta at that time was tacking to port also. At 12:20 the Genesta went about. The Puritan continued her port tack. At 12:39 wind light from southwest and going down.

1 p. m.—The breeze is coming up from the south southwest. Yachts felt it both, while on port tack. Genesta keeps nearly two miles astern of the Puritan. The race to-day is over the "inside" course of the New York yacht club course; is down through the Narrows and across lower bay around buoy No. 10 on S. W. spit, leaving that buoy on port hand side, thence to southward buoy, No. 5½. The Puritan passed Scotland lightship at 1.57; Genesta at 2.01½.

2.20 p. m.—Puritan turned stake boat at 2:15; Genesta turned at 2.20.

2:40—The Puritan passed Scotland lightship homeward bound at 2.33.20; the Genesta at 2.37.3

At 2:35 the Puritan and Genesta are on port tack. The Puritan keeps her position to windward. It looks from here as though the Puritan went too far to windward in rounding the light ship, and consequently lost considerable ground. The Genesta is overhauling her rival more rapidly than on the outward course. Both yachts are doing good work. The fleet of steamers and yachts are all homeward bound.

2:40. The Genesta, after rounding the spit, sent up her balloon topsail and rapidly reduced the distance between herself and the Puritan. The latter also sent up her balloon topsail. The racers are only half a mile apart now. The Puritan passed the Observatory, opposite Sandy-hook buoy No. 5½, at 1.32 under a cloud of canvas. An iron steamboat interfered somewhat with the wind of the Genesta. The Puritan to the northward of buoy No. 5, on the point of the lookout, around Sandyhook light ship home over the same course; finishing just outside the Narrows.

The Puritan rounded the buoy at southwest spit at 1:20 p. m., and the Genesta at 1:24 p.m. Both yachts are now driving for Sandyhook point, and friends of the Puritan think the Genesta is getting uncomfortably close. The Puritan at 1:45 was four minutes ahead. The wind is nine miles an hour, and from the south southwest. The Puritan went to windward and holds her advantage; she is now outside of Sandybook.

OWL'S HEAD, Upper Bay, N. Y., Sept. 14.—The morning opened with an overnight. At 6 o'clock there was a large number of yachts, both of visiting clubs and New York, Atlantic, Boston and other organizations, at anchor at Bay Ridge and Stolen Island. At 9 o'clock the wind had freshened and hauled around to southwest, giving promise that one of the races so long deferred would be finished to-day. The judges' boat, the Leickenback, arrived at the starting point about ten o'clock, at which time the tide was at half flood and running at full strength of four miles an hour. At ten o'clock, while the Puritan was standing on port tack over Staten Island shore, she hoisted her jib to position, and got her stops ready to break out, but her stops did not happen to be strong enough for a puff of the wind caught the canvas and blew it out before it was wanted. The jib topsail had to be lowered and was furled on bowsprit. At 10:05 the Genesta was under mainsail, club top-sails and jib, was running free up the Bay, passing the Puritan to windward. The boats being then about a mile apart. The stake boat, covered with flags from one end of her bowsprit to the topmast head, and down to her beam end, anchored about two hundred yards southwest of buoy No. 16. The Puritan off starboard tack headed the line in obedience to the warning signal; the Genesta at once hauled her wind to same tack, and set her staysail. At 10:30 the Genesta and the Puritan, after sailing about the bay for half an hour in order to get into their positions ranged side by side off Owl's Head, with the Puritan to windward as usual. At this moment the bay was alive with tugs and yachts, and the white sails were perfectly dazzling.

THE STARTING SIGNAL

was given at 10:34, and instantly the two boats began to move through the water. The Puritan under all plain sail was off first and crossed the line a little ahead of the Genesta. She seemed to move a little quickest at first, but then the Genesta got a breath of wind and ran up to her rival. Both vessels stood on a short tack to the Long Island shore, then the Genesta suddenly whirled about on a long tack for the Island shore. A few seconds later the Puritan went about in pursuit.

A PICTURESQUE SCENE.

The scene presented by the yachts and steamers as they passed Sandy Hook was a notably picturesque one. The Puritan, with every sheet of canvas spread, led the procession; behind her came steamers with varied colored flags above their decks, and the yachts with white sails. The Genesta followed at some distance behind, also under full sail. She swept along with hardly, if any, less speed than the Puritan. The red caps of her sailors made them discernible. The wind becoming steady, at six miles per hour, the Puritan appeared to gain on her rival. After passing Sandy Hook she had the whole sea to herself, and Capt. Crocker evidently meant to see that she kept it. He stood much closer to wind than did Capt. Carter.

THE FINISHING RUN.

SANDYHOOK, 2:20 p. m.—The Puritan passed buoy at 3:04.05 and Genesta 3:10 16.

WEST BANK, 3:30 p. m.—Puritan has set her baloon jib and is going home; she leads by one mile; the Genesta has just set her squnneker.

The Puritan in passing Sandy Hook was half a mile head of the Genesta. After passing the hook each yacht was in turn delayed by the strong ebb tide which sets in with great force at this point. Tide proved more serious to the Genesta than to the Puritan. The latter, however, recovered he lost ground and even gained a little before reaching south west spit buoy.

At 3:35 the Puritan went on port tack reaching in toward the Jersey shore. The yachts were then off the hospital ship. The Puritan went about on starboard tack and the Genesta took port tack. The Puritan, at 3:33 .15 rounded south west spit, and the Genesta, at 3:42 40.

THE PURITAN WINS THE RACE.

SANDYHOOK, 4 p. m., Sept. 14.—The Puritan passed the imaginary line drawn from here towards Princess bay 8 minutes and 3 seconds ahead of the Genesta.

4:05 p.m.—The Puritan has just passed the hospital ship; the Genesta is away astern.

FORT HAMILTON, 4:40 p. m.—The Puritan wins the race, crossing the winning line at 4:38½; the Genesta crossed the line at 4:44½.

The Medicinal Virtues of the Bagpipes.

Many a joke has been cracked as to the unmusical nature of the bagpipes, but a use has at last been found for that instrument of music or torture, as the case may be. A soldier was taken to the military hospital at Havana suffering from catalepsy. For fifteen months he remained under treatment at the hospital without showing the least sign of improvement, despite the fact that all the resources of medical science were applied to his case. Finally the doctors ordered that a bagpipe be played near his bed. The experiment was successful. The man recovered consciousness almost immediately, and is now able to articulate some words and take nourishment. Those who do not admire the musical qualities of the bagpipes may be prepared to admit their medicinal virtues.

TWO MEN, Competed in a brutal prize fight on Saturday last, at a point on the Columbia river, opposite Columbia City. The contest was to settle the championship of Oregon and dispose of a grudge that had existed between the two men. Fourteen rounds were fought, and Reilly was knocked down fourteen times and badly battered. The final knock out stretched Reilly senseless for five minutes. It has been said that the purse was $500 a side. The police did not interfere.

Customs and Excise Tariff.

From Messrs. T. N. Hibben & Co., and Messrs. M. W. Waitt & Co., THE TIMES has received copies of the "Customs and Excise Tariff regulations" as in force in Canada at present, a list of warehousing ports in the Dominion, with exchange table for sterling, franc, German rixmarks and other monies. The edition is a handy one for reference purposes, and should be found in every counting room in the province.

For the North.

The Barbara Boscowitz left at 1:45 for Fort Simpson and way ports. Among the passengers on board were Judge Elliot, George Willliscroft, Mrs. Yeomans, Austin Price, and C. McCarty. The latter is on a prospecting tour for coal and will go to the neighborhood of Fort Rupert. A considerable quantity of freight was on board for various points on the coast and in the interior.

TO-DAY'S DESPATCHES.

The Armstrong Abduction Case.

Special to THE TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The examination of defendants in the Eliza Armstrong abduction case was resumed to-day. Mrs. Broughton, who it is alleged conducted the sale of the girl, denied that Eliza was sold, and declared she accepted the four pounds from Mrs. Jarrett in consideration of past kindness. Testimony of Mrs. Broughton in the Armstrong case was finished this afternoon. The Magistrate frequently told Stead his questions were irrelevant. Mr. Stead smiled complacently whenever he thought he had scored a point. The evidence of Mrs. Broughton, however, did not materially alter the matter. Mrs. Armstrong was the next witness and testified that she had objected to her daughter entering service, because she required her at home.

Chief Justice Waite in England.

Special to THE TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The Times says: The statement will be read with interest that we have the presence of the chief justice of the U. S. among us. It is regretted though that the time of year prevents a concerted action, respecting his visit, being taken on the part of the different Inns of Court. The legal profession, however, will extend to the Chief Justice Waite that cordial reception given by the Americans to Lord Coleridge, on the occasion of the latters visit to United States. But it is fitting that the presence among us of a judge yet more eminent in position than Lord Coleridge should be known and recognized by us.

Chan Nong New King of Annam.

Special to THE TIMES.

PARIS, Sept. 14.—Gen. DeCourcy, commanding the French troops in Annam, telegraphs to-day to the Minister of War that Chan Nong has been proclaimed the new king of Annam, and entered the royal palace to-day. Salutes were fired in honor of the event and the Annamite flag had been hoisted over the palace and the various public buildings. Chan Nong will be crowned on the 19th inst. There is much mortality among the natives, owing to the prevalence of cholera.

To Dispel a Cloud.

Special to THE TIMES

MADRID, Sept. 14.—Admiral Babodilla has issued a circular to the officers of the navy, instructing them to tell their men that the government has asked for an official report from Manilla, which he says will doubtless dispel the cloud over their brother officers at Yap.

The Russo-Afghan Commission.

Special to THE TIMES.

LONDON, Sept. 14.—The new Russo-Afghan frontier commission will meet at Zulfikar in November next. It is estimated that it will not conclude its labors until August, 1886.

The Cholera Disappearing.

Special to THE TIMES.

TOULON, Sept. 14.—Not a single death from cholera was reported here last night. The shops are re-opening and the refugees returning to the city. There are only 71 cases of cholera at present under treatment.

NOTES AND COMMENTS.

CENSUS returns from various parts of Massachusetts show a considerable reduction in population as compared with the census of 1875.

THE Canadian Temperance Act is declared to be enforced in the counties of Lincoln and Middlessex after the expiry of the present licenses.

THE vote of thanks to the Canadian boatmen who served in the Nile expedition, passed by the Imperial Parliament, is published in the Canada Gazette.

THE PRINCESS VICTORIA, of Teck, eldest daughter of the DUCHESS of Teck, is called the prettiest royal maiden of a marriageable age now to be found in Europe.

SIR JOHN MACDONALD, SIR LEONARD TILLEY, and HON. J. A. CHAPLEAU are the only ministers absent from the city. The two latter are absent as invalids.

THE London Lancet regards the increased use of fruit in ordinary diet as one of the most salutary tendencies of domestic management in our day.

THE Queen has signified her acceptance of the position of patroness of LADY DUFFERIN'S fund for providing medical assistance for the women of India.

OVER 78,000 deaths this year in Europe from cholera, of which, say, 77,000 were in Spain. The love of dirt is a fearful and wonderful thing, but, as the unfortunate Spaniards are learning, it has its drawbacks.

A NEW branch of the fish trade has been established at St. John, N. B. Namely, the preparing of boneless fish, the supply of which for the Canadian market has long been drawn from New England. The first lots of these boneless cod have been received in Montreal, and have met with a favorable reception from the trade.

IT is plain that the commission at Alexandria which made the indemnity awards which was paid out of the Egyptian loan was a farce and fraud of the worst kind. The commission, it is charged, ratified the claims for thousands of francs which were worth no more than the same number of centimes. In many cases, after giving certificates for claims, the commission was forced by evidence of fraud to cancel the awards, but in many others, where the fraud was equally great, the payments were made corruptly. It is positively stated that a majority of the claims paid have gone into the pockets of the members of an organized gang of financiers. A great number of the most influential foreigners residing in Egypt, it is stated, favored a movement for an English protectorate over the the country, as the only means of rescuing it from bankruptcy. The Egyptian council of ministers recently discussed the question and a bare majority voted in its favor, but the khedive over-ruled the vote.

IT was a neat thing on the part of the officials of the Canadian Pacific Railway to remember the volunteers in the naming of their several stations between Biscotasing and Port Arthur. The passage through the "gaps" in the Canadian Pacific, this, therefore, singularly appropriate that the points along these gaps should hereafter be commemorated by the names of OTTER, GRASSET, BREMNER, CHIMEY, AMYOT and other officers who brought their men over that line in those dreary winter days on the way to the defence of their country.

THE immensity of London, England, may be gathered from the following figures and facts. The size of the city is fifteen miles long by ten wide, and it has a population of 5,000,000 with 700,000 houses. The provisions annually consumed are:—Beeves 800,000, wheat 16,000,000 bushels; sheep, calves and pigs 400,000; different varieties of poultry 900,000; fish 130,000 tons. The following liquids are annually used:—Beer 45,000,000 gallons, spirits 5,000,000, water 50,000,000. There are 500,000 gas lamps in use and 15,000,000 cubic feet of gas consumed per day in lighting the city. To light and heat the city it takes 500,000 tons of coal. There are 13,000 policemen and 7000 medical men. Over £1,000,000 a year are expended on education. One omnibus company report that they carry fifty or sixty millions of passengers annually.

NEW CONDITIONS.

This province is about to enter into newer and more practical phases of development. Mere surface-scratching and manipulation of surface products must give place to other interests as yet not hardly thought of, and if considered at all, needed a greater amount of energy and venture than old residents had either the experience or courage to undertake. The early completion of the transcontinental line will bring new forces into the field, which have hitherto been expended elsewhere, and attract capital from all parts of the world. Not only will new elements be brought into requisition forthwith, but even existing elements will be inspired by example into emulative practices. The formation of a city on Burrard Inlet will be erected by the mere demand for its existence, in order to aggregate the efforts of the future manipulators of provincial wealth and action. The conservatism of provincialism will be borne down by a more vigorous and cosmopolitan spirit, and the growing desire for expansion will form a unity of interests and action hitherto unknown. It needs no dreamy sentimentalism to foreshadow the future of the province and the revolutions of a commercial character which will shortly supersede the old channels and grooves of trade. In this there will be no actual rivalry, for mere purposes of rivalry; it will simply mean the building up of new interests at points which will have the advantages of nature and capital to accelerate their growth. It is not a question between one city and another, but a matter of trade competition wherein the places having the best facilities for the distribution of trade and commerce will command superior consideration and respect. Success will be the living motive to test the advantages of each. Newspaper controversies will not alter facts, nor change those channels of trade which offer the best facilities for competition and profit. Nor will sophistry of any kind prevent the Canadian feeling in building up a western city representing its influence and wealth. The new city will be largely composed of a class representing all the vigor and determination of the east and west; full of restlessness and enterprise. Cheap labor which is essential to the development of the country will be aided by the cheapness of the necessaries of life, to assist capital in every undertaking offering reasonable hopes of gain; and both together, in a spirit of unity, may prove a mixed blessing to the country.

With the growth and development of the Island and the mainland the volume of business transacted in Victoria will expand. Already the commercial and shipping metropolis of the Canadian Northwest Coast, she is likewise the manufacturing centre for many industries which will be increased in producing capacity in accordance with the requirements of the country. With the completion of the Canadian Pacific railway new fields and markets will be opened for the enterprise of our people. Other industries will likewise be established here, for one manufacturing establishment brings another, until at last a large centre is formed. It behooves our citizens to be on the alert and not allow opportunities to slip through their fingers, which if lost can never be recovered.

NEW ENGLAND'S POPULATION.

The old New England stock is every year constituting a smaller proportion of the New England people. This is owing, not so much to its dying out as to its being transplanted, though those who remain at home have generally no large families as those who remove to the Western States. The annual report of the Superintendent of Public Instruction for New Hampshire, just published, shows that the number of children attending the public schools of that State was nearly one thousand less in 1884 than in 1883. This is not an exceptional state of things. In 1872 there were 72,762 children at school in New Hampshire, but in 1884 there were only 63,656. In the State of Maine it is much the same. In fifteen years the children attending the public schools of these two States have fallen off by 21,000, while the population has, during the same period, increased by 50,000. The reason of this is not far to seek. Something is to be attributed to increased remissness in keeping up schools in the poor and dwindling populations of the hill districts; something to the increase of factory hands and the difficulty of compelling the attendance of their children. But the great reason is, it is building on. There are, in short, fewer relatively who marry, and those who do have smaller families. Thus the population of the New England States is fast being changed. It is becoming largely and rapidly foreign. But then that foreign element is becoming as rapidly assimilated, and the newer emigrants are turning out as good Americans, and as zealous Republicans as the older ones were.

Amicably Arranged.

The war rate that has existed between the Manitoba railway and the C. P. R. Co. has been adjusted. The St. Paul and Manitoba winter tariff, just printed, quotes rates from St. Paul to all points in the Canadian Pacific country. Some rates are reduced, while others are advanced. The general effect of the tariff is to open up the entire Canadian Pacific country, and establish thoroughly amicable relations between the two companies. The latter has been practically done, as the transfer of cars at the boundary has been done away with, and cars are now run through without change. The tariff will go into effect to-morrow, the 15th instant.

medicine is the first necessity for cure. Then the cathartic effect must be maintained, in a mild degree, just sufficient to prevent a recurrence of costiveness, and at the same time the liver, kidneys and stomach must be stimulated and strengthened.

Ayer's Pills

Accomplish this restorative work better than any other medicine. They are searching and thorough, yet mild, in their purgative action. They do not gripe the patient, and do not induce a costive reaction, as is the effect of other cathartics. The prompt use of AYER'S PILLS to correct the first indications of costiveness, averts the serious illnesses which neglect of that condition would inevitably induce. All irregularities in the action of the bowels—looseness as well as constipation—are beneficially controlled by AYER'S PILLS, and for the stimulation of digestive organs weakened by long-continued dyspepsia, one or two of AYER'S PILLS daily, after dinner, will do more good than anything else.

FARM AND GARDEN

The American Forestry Congress.

It is always a satisfaction to note steps in the progress of tree planting and forest preservation in this country. The American Forestry congress was organized in Cincinnati, O., in 1882. There is now a local forestry association in many of the states. The American association includes the United States and Canada. Its objects are the preservation of forests from destruction by fires or otherwise, and the replanting and forest culture of waste lands, with a view to growing valuable timber and reaping profitable returns. It also investigates the influence of wooded districts upon rainfall, climate and products of the soil.

In the few years that it has existed, the main association has already wrought much good. Some sound and strong step in advance followed each annual meeting. Mostly it resulted in thorough-going local legislation in each section of the country in which the annual meeting was held. Fine laws have been made and state forestry commissions have been established. Through the efforts of the congress it has come about that the noble Adirondack woods will be preserved. In fifteen states annual tree planting, or arbor days, have been appointed by law. One annual meeting was held in Montreal, Canada, and another at St. Paul, and the one in 1884 at Saratoga. This year the congress will meet at Boston, Sept. 22. If the United States congress was half as useful, according to its size, as this little one is, ours would be a happy country.

Many of the brainiest and most distinguished men of the United States and Canada are members of the association. The president is Judge Warren Higley, of New York city. The vice-president is Hon. H. G. Joly, of Quebec. On the executive committee are men from Nebraska, Connecticut, Iowa and Florida. It is a matter of the whole North American continent.

The Boston meeting will be one of great interest.

A Farmer's Home.

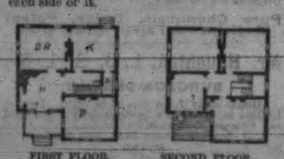
From The Present we reproduce a tasteful design for a $2,500 house. If being supposed to be a country house, plumbing is not included in this estimate of cost. The house may be built of brick or frame, or it may be covered with plaster panels upon the outside, a fashion which is coming into vogue.

TWENTY-FIVE HUNDRED DOLLAR HOUSE.

In the original design in The Present the lower story and gables were of plaster. The upper story was covered with shingles, on beveled and grooved sheathing. They are stained with a reddish creosote preparation, at once to give color and make this weather boarding durable.

A bay window is on the front of the parlor, and the pretty verandah opens into a square hall, 11x11 feet. The parlor is 13x16 feet in size. The interior plan will be seen

The square hall opens into a cross hall in which the stairs ascend. Between these two, handsome draped curtains are the most tasteful separation. A portiere, or hanging curtain, is far prettier than a door. The square hall has a fire place in the corner, and is furnished as a pretty room. The dining-room is 13x15 feet and the kitchen 13x14 feet. A hall closet is provided, where unsightly umbrellas, overshoes and wraps can be kept out of sight, but near to hand. The dining-room has a china closet and opens to the kitchen, which is also to be reached by a door opening to the stair hall back of the portiere before mentioned. This door gives ready access to the front door, and also allows persons to pass from the back part of the house to the stairs without passing through the main hall. The pantry and cellar entrance are under the broad landing of the stairs, where a large window is placed, lighting both the upper and lower stair halls. The entrance hall is well lighted by a glass panel in the door and windows at each side of it.



FIRST FLOOR. SECOND FLOOR.

In the second story are four bed-rooms, each opening from the hall and having a roomy closet. The dimensions of the upper rooms correspond to those below. Cellar under the whole house.

Grow Garden Truck.

The editor of a southern agricultural periodical devotes a paper to showing his constituents how the Yankees get rich. The information in his lively article will be a good bit of knowledge for the "Yankees" themselves to get hold of.

The aim of the southern editor is to induce his readers to go into fruit and vegetable culture and canning. He tells us the dried fruit industry of New England and the Middle States alone amounted last year to over 16,000,000. A tomato canning factory at Bordentown, N. J., cears $30,000 a year, over 12½ per cent. profit on its capital. A peach and pear canning house in California pays a dividend of 16 per cent. Yes, verily, even so simple yet strong a thing as horse radish has millions in it. The grinding and bottling of horse radish employs no less than six firms in New York city. Any barren hillside in the land will grow this fiery root. Our enterprising editor cites that fat Pennsylvania farmers and thousand Connecticut farmers clear $200 an acre off just horse radish, and nothing more. What is done in the north, the writer urges eloquently, can be done in the south.

Two-thirds of mankind's food ought to be fruit and vegetables. Instead of being as we many farmers are, "starving on meat," their health, wealth and happiness would be far greater if they took their animal food largely in the shape of milk, butter, cheese and eggs, and dropped their chemics of fat pork and their old ham bones. Bounce your frying pans and try it, another year.

Besides, hear what that invaluable citizen, Peter Henderson, tells us of the profits of gardening. An acquaintance of his living upon a fifty-acre farm near Rochester began timidly to grow table vegetables a dozen years ago. The first year he only put in a half acre, feeling his way and gaining experience cautiously. Now he cultivates thirty of his fifty acres in vegetables, his yearly sales amounting. Last year he netted over $20 an acre from them, $6,000, and he mildly adds that it was a very good year for cabbages, either. The point, now, is, little farm had been in wheat and corn last year! He would scarcely have got enough from it to pay his taxes and care himself with. A Maryland farmer, on 10 acres in cantelope melons, netted $8,000 a year.

There is a swamp near Kalamazoo, Mich., that it leases and drains. That is to say, there was a swamp. To-day it is a rooster great celery farm. Five thousand tons of celery stalks a year are shipped out of this swamp that was and $150,000 are shipped back to Kalamazoo in return. The lucky fellows who take in this money are just common farmers like the rest of us. Mr. Henderson mentions yet another case. A farmer in Pennsylvania lived near a village of 2,000 inhabitants. He had a patch of land in sweet corn and strawberries. Marketed in the village alone it rendered him back money at the rate of $175 to the acre. Wasn't that better than thirteen bushels of wheat at seventy cents a bushel?

To go into small fruit and vegetable gardening successfully, one should be tolerably near a market. Driving your teams three or four miles up a steep hill or over horrible country roads will tend to take off the profits. The best soil for gardening is a dark, rather sandy ground. A clayey soil is not so good either for vegetables or fruits, though for fruits it may be greatly improved by mixing it with sand, leaf mold or muck and some lime.

For the best garden soil, manure to the amount of seventy-five tons an acre should be used. The outlay will be repaid.

Here is a paragraph clipped from an address by Mr. Henderson:

"With proper attention I think there is every inducement for many farmers to add this profitable branch to their farm operations. The kind of garden products that would be most profitable would be, I think, in small fruits, strawberries, raspberries, blackberries and grapes. In vegetables, asparagus, beans, peas, beets, cabbage, cauliflower, celery, sweet corn, cucumbers, melons, radish, spinach, squash, tomato and turnip. Much will depend on the locality what is best to grow. If grown to ship from a southern point to a northern one, then such vegetables as asparagus, where there is a great deal of value in proportion to bulk, is the most advantageous to grow."

Asparagus is a vegetable on which immense profits are made. It returns $300 to $400 an acre in the neighborhood of New York. Grown in the south and shipped north early in the season it will pay three or four times as much as that, and has done so. In fruit culture, high quality of the product should be especially aimed at.

Discouraged farmers, you who break your backs and stiffen your joints over field crops that either fail or bring such low prices that you fear you will go to the poorhouse, suppose you reorganize. Start out anew. Add market and small fruit gardening to your resources. Go into it small at first. Learn year by year what is in demand and what will grow best in your locality. There never was a difficulty that there was not a way out of it. Small fruit and vegetable culture will certainly prove the way out of poverty and anxiety to many a worthy agriculturist who now can scarcely make both ends meet.

After the Bugs.

[Our Country Home.]

Look out for the cabbage caterpillar. Pyrethrum powder, applied with the Woodason bellows, in the quiet of evening or early morning, will effectually destroy this pest. The application will need to be repeated about once a week for a complete remedy. The powder may be sifted on the plants, but we have found no method of application so satisfactory as with the bellows.

For the squash vine borer try placing corn cobs dipped in coal tar among the plants. Last season we seemed to derive very great benefit by so doing.

Cover cucumber and melon vines with light frames covered over the top with mosquito netting, to keep off the striped bug. We have found this method more satisfactory than fighting this pest with poisons.

Unless we use care, the potato beetle will destroy our egg plants before we know it. Paris green will help, but the perfect beetles often seem to prosper in the midst of this deadly poison. Why?

One part of Paris green to 150 (by weight) of land plaster is sufficient to destroy the larvæ of the potato beetle, provided the parts are thoroughly mixed. We have used one part of the poison to 200 of the plaster.

A Pennsylvania Huckleberry Patch.

The west side of Moosic mountain, between Olyphant and Carbondale, is one of the greatest huckleberry-producing regions in Pennsylvania. It is ten miles in length, and from three to four miles in width. The season for gathering the fruit extends from the last week in June until the second week in August. When the crop is an abundant one—as it will be this year, from the fact that the fires burned off the bushes last spring—the miners' families of the Lackawanna valley work like beavers while the berries last, gathering the fruit by the bushel and selling it for a fair price. Work in the mines has been so unsteady during the last few months that the miners are in need of the little revenue whether good crop of huckleberries will be realized or not. Two or three bushels of berries are often gathered by a family in half a day, and they sell readily for seven cents a quart, the buyers coming to their doors. It is estimated that the huckleberry crop this year will reach at least 3,000 bushels. None of the berries are shipped to New York, though many of them are sent to cities considerably further away.

Walnut Pickles.

Scald the nuts with lye and rub off the outer skin. Put them into strong salt water, changing the water every third day for nine days, keeping closely covered from the air. Then take them out and wipe them carefully, and prepare the pickle as follows: For 100 nuts, take of black pepper and ginger, root, each, one ounce; of cloves, mace, and nutmeg, each, one-half ounce. Pound all the spices to powder and mix well together, adding two tablespoonfuls of mustard seed. Put the nuts into a jar, strewing the powdered spices between every layer. Boil for five minutes one gallon of good vinegar, and pour, while boiling, over the nuts, tie up closely, and set away for use. I have always used the white walnut or butternut. Gather when half grown or when they can be readily pierced with a pin. This pickle is good for a long, long time; in fact, age improves it.

The Harvest.

The wheat crop will be very short. Medium yield of oats with a large acreage sown on account of failure of wheat. Potatoes will be a fair crop. Outlook for tobacco generally good. Sorghum has received a set back. Cotton will be a large crop. For the off year the yield of apples will be good. Peaches in the north and west winter-killed, in the south and middle portion of the country prospect good. Pears and cherries poor crops. Small fruit a fair yield.

Didn't Know Her Intimately.

[Arkansaw Traveler.]

"Do you know this woman?" asked a lawyer of a negro who had been summoned to testify before court.

"Yes, sah, I knows her."

"Do you know her very intimately?"

"No, sah, sain't say dat I do."

"How long have you known her?"

"Well, I got ar 'quainted wid her er short time before I married her."

"This your wife, then? Thought you did not know her intimately?"

"Dat's what I jackerlated."

"I don't understand, then, how she can be your wife."

"Well, yer see, sah, she 'longs to de church, de singin' society, de Sisters o' de Sacred Broom, de Daughters o' Ham, an' two or three little 'sociations. De woman what is kep' so busy, sah, ain't got no time fer foot or roun' home."

Death from Railway Accidents.

[Exchange.]

It is estimated that of the number of people who meet their death from railway accidents, 10 per cent. are killed by falling or being thrown from engines or trains in motion. Forty per cent. of those injured are railway men hurt in coupling cars and 7 per cent. of the killed are killed from the same cause. The average life of a freight brakeman is only ten years.

TO CORRESPONDENTS.

While the TIMES is always prepared to give publicity to the views of correspondents on any question of interest to the public, provided facts are given, couched in unobjectionable language, we wish it to be understood that we do not hold ourselves responsible for the views expressed by the writers thereof.

Nor can we give room to duplicates of letters that have appeared in one of our contemporaries either in this city or elsewhere in the province. Correspondents, therefore, will save time and trouble in preparing such for THE TIMES, as they will not be inserted.

Our space is valuable, and brevity as far as possible, should be observed in writing on any topic, and on ONE SIDE of the sheet only.

And Yet They Come.

A dispatch from Vincennes, Indiana, says that three township trustees of Davis County have disappeared. It is said that they have issued fraudulent orders on their townships, and on the credit of the same have raised money and absconded with it. They are Charles H. Brown, John Grims, and John Clark, and are supposed to be in Canada. The amount of money carried away is estimated at from $50,000 to $200,000. Great excitement exists.

Stealing a Water-proof Suit.

A man named George Haydon, who had been "subbing" on the sealing schooner San Diego, now in port, for one of the men, who was ashore, was arrested this afternoon by officer McLaren, on a charge of stealing a suit of oil-clothes. The clothes were found at a pawnbroker's, and the prisoner admitted having pawned them, but claims to have bought the suit in San Francisco. He will have a chance of establishing his innocence to-morrow at the police court.

Correction.

Mr. H. B. Tremp requests THE TIMES to state that he has no connection whatever with the London Fish Market, and is at loss to comprehend why his name should be associated with the enterprise, as neither directly or indirectly did the gentleman intimate that he had the remotest idea of becoming a partner in the concern.

The Best Yet.

Messrs. O. Weller, H. O'Brien, C. Deoring and W. Shields killed twelve deer still hunting, in the vicinity of Goldstream Sunday. This is undoubtedly the best score this season. These gentlemen are some of our most expert Nimrods in handling the rifle.

Misses and Children's Autumn and Winter Mantles, 20 to 40 inches long, from $1 25 each, at the CITY HOUSE.

ARROGANT AND OFFENSIVE.

The editor of the Colonist this morning, in an editorial a trifle more arrogant and offensive than usual, and by a communication mendaciously false in every line, returns to the silly charge, made by himself, that THE TIMES had referred disparagingly to the pioneers of this province. In our issue of last evening he was charged with the paternity of the falsehood and called upon either to prove the statement or stand convicted of a wilful untruth. In neither the editorial or letter of this morning does the editor of the Colonist deny that he is the writer, and no attempt is made to prove that THE TIMES was guilty of "sneering" at those brave and indomitable men—the pioneers of British Columbia—who led the van in planting civilization in what was, in their early days, an unknown wilderness. If this paper has committed that unpardonable mistake, the offence can easily be proved. The Colonist has complete files of THE TIMES; if it has not they can be seen in this office. From the first issue down to the present one, we challenge the Colonist to find one line in THE TIMES that will sustain its cowardly and contemptible insinuation. There is no need to raise a cloud of dust, or draw a red herring across the scent. The issue is straight and plain. A charge has been made. If true, the evidence is in his hands, and he can produce it. But if untrue will he be gentleman enough to retract, and apologise? Wait and see.

Many of THE TIMES subscribers, surprised at the charge, have enquired about the article on which the editor of the Colonist founded his letter. For their information we reproduce the item verbatim:

Still Another Gone.

"Captain Joseph Middleton, a well-known pioneer of this province, died at St. Joseph's Hospital this morning, aged 47 years. He was a native of Marsden, Lancashire, England, and was owner of the "Eliza," chartered by the Dominion government for several years as a lightship for the Fraser river. The old pioneers have been crossing the great "divide" in large numbers during the present year, and at best it will be but a brief interval until the last of the class has gone to his final home."

If there is any "sneer," or phrase, which by the wildest stretch of the imagination, can be construed into an offensive reference, we will be only too glad, on having it pointed out, to make a full and complete retraction. But there is none, and no one knows better than the thoroughly unprincipled writer referred to, that his malicious charge is without the slightest foundation, and was concocted for the sole purpose of injuring THE TIMES with a large, respectable and honored class of this community. The policy of the Colonist towards this journal is well known to the readers of both papers. Honorable business rivalry from a successful opponent is gall and wormwood to the narrow minded, and the editor of the Colonist is only attempting to do by falsehood and deceit what he has failed to accomplish by less dishonorable means.

Rolling Round the Room.

The race at the skating rink last night, between Le Lievre, of Victoria, and Coffee, of Seattle, was witnessed by fully five or six hundred spectators. Sharp at nine o'clock the floor was cleared and the two contestants were started, at opposite sides of the rink, by the beat of a drum. For a number of laps there was no perceptible difference in the positions of the two skaters. Le Lievre afterwards dropped a few feet behind, the result of a slight collision in turning a corner; but by the time a mile had been made he had recovered his ground and was gaining on his opponent. Thence to the finish the Victorian gained steadily, and amid the enthusiastic applause of the crowd, the race was finished together, Le Lievre winning by half the circuit of the hall. The distance was two miles and the stakes $60 a side. There was considerable betting on the result.

From the Sealing Grounds.

The schooner Favorite, Captain McLean, arrived last night from Behring's Sea, with 2065 skins. She made the run from Behring's Sea to Victoria in eleven days, landing nine canoes of Indians on the West coast of Vancouver Island. She was the only schooner sealing up in Behring Sea with an Indian crew, and had the misfortune to lose a canoe with two Indians in a fog. Her total catch amounted to 2065, for this season, having taken 1383 in Behring Sea and 682 on the West coast of Vancouver.

The schooner City of San Diego, Capt. White, with four boats, also made a big catch, having brought 1963 seals from Behring sea, while she caught 223 westward, making a total catch of 2276 in about five months. Other schooners due with big catches are the Mary Ellen, Victoria; San Diego, Sierra, Otter, Adele, Vanderbilt, Alexander, of San Francisco.

POLICE COURT.

(Before Edwin Johnson, Esq., S. M.)

James Smith, on remand from the 12th, on a charge of robbing a Swede named Sandborn, of $45 on Wednesday last. Mr. White, saloon keeper, Yates and Douglas street, said that prisoner was in his place between 12 and 1 o'clock, when he showed a pistol. Prisoner said he had just pulled it out on a man and scared him with it. The pistol was loaded. John Dunbar gave similar evidence. T. Lendin, bar-keeper at the Vancouver, knew the complainant for three years; saw him on Wednesday night; he had, perhaps, sixty dollars on his person at 10 o'clock, and prisoner had plenty of opportunity to know it, as Sandborn exposed it several times. About two o'clock Sandborn was put to bed very drunk, and he then had no money. In the morning he said that the bar-keeper and prisoner had been up to some "funny business" with him last night, and prisoner had pulled a revolver on him and robbed him outside. Officer McLaren proved the arrest and having found five pistol cartridges and $4 in money on prisoner, but no pistol. At this point court was adjourned until 2:30 p. m.

WHITE LABOR.

Organization of an Association to Promote its Employment.

Harmony hall was pretty full last night in response to the announcement that a labor bureau would be organized. Mr. N. Shakespeare, M. P., occupied the chair and explained the origin and object of the new association. The initiative was taken a few days ago when a few gentlemen—Messrs. Shakespeare, Powell, Hamilton, Dyas, and Tierney—organized themselves into an executive. The object in view is to provide the idle white men of the city with work, to the exclusion of Chinese, by every legitimate means possible. It was simply a practical effort to accomplish what the anti-Chinese League and all advocates of white labor have in view. Books would be opened, in which every unemployed man could enter his name and residence, a fee of 25 cents being charged to defray expenses. If a man obtains work through the association and afterwards lost his position through misconduct, his name would be taken from the roll, as it was desirable and it would be the aim of the association to raise the status of the white laboring men of the city. The rules of the organization were read by Mr. Mason, the secretary, and the working committee, composed of Messrs. R. T. Williams, W. H. Mason and J. H. Dyas was appointed. Books were opened and a number of those present came forward and registered their names, after which the meeting adjourned. The books will be kept at Mr. Shakespeare's office on Broad street, and Mr. Powell's on Yates street, where every person who desires to do so can sign them.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Has no Connection with the Business.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—Allow me to correct an error which appeared in your issue of yesterday, connecting the name of Mr. H. R. Troup with that of myself and Mr. W. Jensen. Mr. Troup has no connection with my fishing business, or with the firm of Solly & Grey, fish curers, of Lime Bay, Esquimalt Road, of which Mr. W. Jensen is the sole agent for this province.

Solicitors' Fees.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—"County Court Agent" in your issue of the 18th inst., notices, with great pleasure, that Sir M. B. Begbie has practically decided that agents appearing in county court cases are entitled to the same fees as solicitors. I cannot, however, view the decision with the same satisfaction as your correspondent. Solicitors are presumed to be, and no doubt sometimes are, of assistance to the court, whilst county court agents usually cause delay and confusion in conducting cases, owing to their want of legal knowledge. I cannot but express surprise at the Chief Justice's decision, as it entirely cuts away the ground that the legal fraternity are of assistance to the court, and tends to the injury of ligitants by throwing the county court business into the hands of irresponsible and unqualified agents. AN UNFORTUNATE LIGITANT.

Shooting Quail.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—On Vancouver Island, as you are aware, there are several kinds of quail existing. One, the native quail of California, imported from there not less than twenty years ago, another, a bird sometimes called Mountain Quail; but both the above are known in the game laws as quail only. The other is a quail imported from Virginia since January 1st, 1884, and mentioned in the game laws as Virginian quail only. Two parties, A. and B., get into a dispute about game laws, when A. bets it is contrary to law to shoot or otherwise destroy quail until September 1st, 1887, while B contends it is not unlawful to do so. Will you be kind enough to inform me through the columns of your valuable paper who wins the bet and oblige

SUBSCRIBER.

The Electric Light.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—Mr. Robert Ward's independent action on the subject of the electric light purchase meets, I think, with the approval of a large majority of the rate payers who realize that the light, except for those who live in the immediate vicinity of a mast, has proved to be simply a failure. But whether a failure or not, if, as a matter of law, the purchase of the plant does not fall under the head of ordinary expenditure, and, therefore, cannot properly be met from the annual revenue, a councillor is only doing his duty to the city in refusing to be a party to an illegal appropriation of municipal funds, and would prove recreant to that duty should he resign his trust at a time when civic rights most need defending. Your correspondent, "A Ward Politician," misses the distinction which exists between a proper submission to the will of a majority, on a matter of policy, and the improper acquiescence in an illegal act. To me it is quite refreshing to find a councillor who thinks for himself, and has not been welded into one of those petty rings which usually dominate corporation affairs. Men of Mr. Ward's calibre, if in the Council, would in the past have frustrated many city jobs, and saved the ratepayers thousands of dollars. That feeling of hostility to Mr. Thomson, of the gas works, is natural enough, but the electric system, may, if pushed to extremes, defeat its own object, and transfer the city from the gaseous frying-pan into the electric fire. Natural sympathy for those worthy citizens who speculated in the electric system ought not to lead the Council to exercise with public funds a generosity which they would not dream of displaying with their private monies.

Empire Brewery.

HENNING PETERS, late of the Lion Brewery, is now prepared to supply the trade and families with all kinds of Beer, Ale and Porter.

The Brewery is situated on Spring Ridge, and is built over a well of pure, ever running spring water. This fact enables me to manufacture the very finest brands, equal to any imported Ale, Beer and Porter.

The machinery used is of latest pattern, the ingredients are pure water, malt and hops, and a trial is only necessary to convince that the brands are the finest manufactured in the Province.

All orders for city supply, or for shipment to Island or Mainland points, will receive prompt attention and a satisfactory article furnished.
